School of Indigenous Studies

Year 12 Leadership Seminar

10–13 April 2017

Applications close: 3 March

General Information

The School of Indigenous Studies at UWA organises camps and activities for Indigenous students in WA who are aspiring for tertiary education. In 2017, students in Year 12 are invited to apply for this Leadership Seminar, which is aimed at students with academic ability and an interest in studying at The University of Western Australia.

During the Seminar, students will be exposed to opportunities available to them in the future through visits to a range of faculties, guest speakers, seminars and workshops.

Activities

Supervision during the week-long residential program is provided by the School of Indigenous Studies' staff. All students participate in a range of academic, social and cultural activities that provide numerous networking opportunities with like-minded students, UWA staff and graduates.

Current UWA Indigenous students offer valuable insight and personal experiences while assisting during the activities. These young role models work closely with participants to foster relationships and motivate their interests in science, arts, business and design.

Students with an aspiration to continue their study at UWA are strongly encouraged to apply. This includes either a degree course or the Aboriginal Orientation Course.

The Leadership Seminar will be held in Perth with the residential component at Clontarf Aboriginal College and the majority of the activities held at UWA.

Applications

Selection is based on student application forms (available online), school report and an interest in studying at UWA. Preference will be given to those students studying subjects with the view of gaining an ATAR for entry into UWA.

All costs including travel, meals and accommodation are sponsored.
