The School of Indigenous Studies at UWA organises an annual residential seminar for Indigenous students in Year 12 from throughout WA, geared towards providing students who have academic ability with an interest to study at university level in Perth. They are exposed to opportunities and options available to them in the future as well as exploring a range of visits, guest speakers, learning seminars and workshops including social and cultural activities.

Students studying TEE or those who display the potential to succeed at university level with an interest in continuing their studies are important considerations for inclusion in the Seminar but not essential.

The Seminar will be held in Perth at the Department of Sport and Recreation’s Ern Halliday Recreation Camp, Whitfords Avenue, Hillarys. All student costs including travel, meals and accommodation are sponsored by UWA. Applications close 1 April and limited to 50 students statewide.
